no one goes hungry

In the wake of the global pandemic COVID-19, daily wage workers have taken the hardest economic hit. India's immediate and unforeseen lockdown, while a necessary step in preventing the virus's spread, has caused desperate situations for this vast population of workers living hand to mouth across the country.

In order to ensure these people do not go hungry, the International Association for Human Values (IAHV) along with The Art of Living started a nation-wide initiative on 22nd March 2020 to provide food and essentials needed by this marginalized segment of the population.

The Art of Living and IAHV teams immediately arranged for the distribution of ration kits, cooked food and PPEs. Each ration kit feeds a family of 4 for 10 days.

relief worth ₹40crore

Our volunteer teams, inspired by the message of Gurudev Sri Sri Ravi Shankar, responded swiftly to collect and distribute rations across the country in coordination with local authorities. The efforts of IAHV and The Art of Living have been critical in beginning the process of providing aid.

Gurudev Sri Sri Ravi Shankar prioritised the plight of the daily wage labourer since the beginning of the pandemic and ran an advocacy campaign called #iStandWithHumanity. This campaign had the support of national celebrities and reached an estimated audience of over 3 crores in 170 cities across India.
